

Giving citations to related content

Giving citations is acknowledging others’ intellectual properties and giving credit to related content that is used without any permission from the owner. Since we’re doing a school project, we might need to use others’ works for the project. Because of that, we’d like to give the credit to the resource and they will be dividing three roles for citation to the resources that are used in our website - the icons, illustrations and design references.

Icons

The navigation bar design of our website BALANCE

First of all, we’d like to say that, the sign-in icon that is used in the navigation bar on our website isn’t created on our own. The icon is created by Vuesax and from an icon package called “Iconsax”.

The plans design of the pricing page

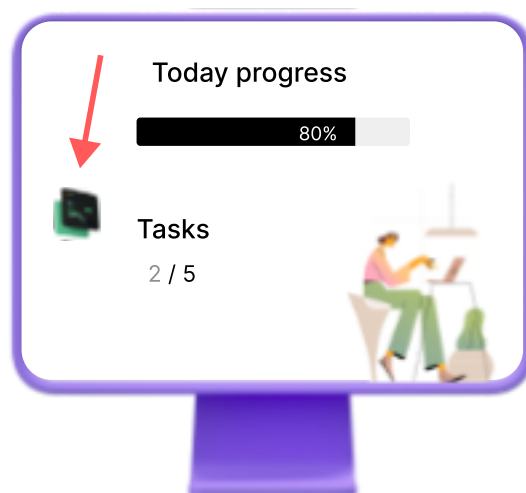

We used three icons which are the cloud, moon and sun icons from the Iconsax icon package in the option cards (the plans) on the pricing page as well.

illustrations

3d Mac icon in the download for Mac and Window page

3d coding interface

workplace illustration design by Darya Semenova

4.

Group chibi characters in about us by our teammate Artist Phoebe Su

The reference drawing

Our teammate Than Thar Su Nanda used this squad drawing to draw our group drawing so we'd like to give the credit for the reference.
